Atlanta Methodists Condemn Floggings Of State Convicts

Action Is Taken by Vote of 54 to 22 at Meeting of North Atlanta District Conference.

WHIPPING SINGLED OUT BY BERT DONALDSON

Original Resolution Called for Conference to Go on Record as Opposed to "Inhumane Treatment."

By the vote of 54 to 22, which followed spirited debate, the North the street, Atlanta district conference of the Methodist church in session Friday at Chamblee, Ga., adopted a resolution condemning flogging in Georgia prisons and calling for an end to the

The conference also massed a reso lution unanimously upholding the 18th, or prohibition, amendment to the Constitution of the United

Debate opened on penal conditions and the question of flogging after the reading of a resolution presented by a special committee composed of Judge John S. Candler, Rev. T. R. Kendall, pastor of Inman Park Methodist church, and Dr. H C. Howard, of Emory university, asking the conference to go on record as opposed to "inhumane" punishment of prisoners.

Amendment Offered.

Bert Donaldson offered an amend ment to urge the state of Georgia to banish the lash. Dr. Howard and Judge Candler made speeches against it and a number of delegates spoke

Dr. Howard and Judge Candler contended that the original resolution was inclusive enough to cover every possible form of corporal punishment, Dr. Howard argued that it would be stretching the province of the church to undertake in detail to tell the state government what it ought to do. He also expressed the fear that to abolish the whipping post might lend encouragement to and cause an increase in crime. He declared that this has been the experience in some abuse of whipping as a measure of discipline and made a strong ples for the conference to single out and take a stand against it. Rev. W. J. De-Bardaleben, pastor of Payne Memorial church, and other ministers and laymen, were among those who spoke in support of the amendment.

25 Churches Represented.

The conference was held in Prosect Methodist church, of which Rev Nath Thompson is pastor. Approximately twenty-five churches of the North Atlanta district were represented by delegates. Rev. W. H. La-Prade, presiding elder of the district presided. The conference came to an end Friday afternoon after having been in session two days. Stone Mountain. Ga., was selected as the next meeting place.

Eight young men were licensed to preach and two of these were recommended to the annual conference on Friday the men of the church were hosts to the conference at a big harheous. The women entertained at a spread Thursday.

It is planned to improve the stree from its southern terminus at Huntstreet, near the state capitol, to the city limits. Members of the commission have informally expressed themselves as favorable to the project, it is stated.

Frampton Ellis, chairman of the Piedmont Avenue Property Owners association, presented the request be fore the committee.

The following street paving bids were awarded. Dixie avenue, from Waddell street to Druid circle, vibrated stone concrete, $2.34 per square yard, to Jamison-Hollowell; Clifton avenue from McLendon to Ponce de Leon, vibrated stone concrete, $2.22, to T. Executives of the firemen and oil rs' union, the signal men and the elerks' brotherhood decided at a concrence with eight other labor unions in Cincinnati last week to issue a strike ballot if their wages were reluced. Board Rules 'DRY' VIEW IN 1921. Commission Asserts City Is LETTER DISCLOSES

But New Treasury Regulations Issued Friday Make Liquor Sales at Sea "Permissible."

METHODISTS PUBLISH 1921 CORRESPONDENCE

In Which Letters Written at Lasker's Direction Clearly State "Dry" Policy of Board.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Washington, June 16 .- Sale of liquor on shipping board vessels outside of the three-mile limit is permissible under new treasury regula tions issued today, according to P. A. Vise, general counsel for the prohibition unit. The board of temperance, prohibtion and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church interjected a new element into the discussions raging about the sale of liquor on American ships today by making public a letter written last November by D. E. Brundage, then advertising manager of the shipping board, denying that liquor was being sold on shipping board vessels. Such sale was franky acknowledged and defended by Chairman Lasker Wednesday in replying to the Anheuser-Busch company.

Solution of the problem, Wayne B, Wheeler, general counsel of the antinloon league, declared tonight, "lies ir. excluding all ships that sell liquor from American ports." Legislation to this end is being considered, he said. · Drawn Some Time.

The new regulations were not drafted with the intention of settling the question of liquor on shipping board vessels. Mr. Vise said, and in fact were written before that question arose. As drawn, however, he said, they would apply equally to American and foreign Walter Sims, Jr., the 21-months-old ships in permitting intoxicating sea stores within the three-mile limit under Sims, of 55 Moreland avenue, died the customs regulations, which provide bout 6:45 o'clock Friday evening at that while in American ports all liquors on board a ship must be sealed un Amending the former regulations,

The new regulations, which become effective today, provide for the seizure of beverage liquor when in transit through the United States.

"It is unlawful," the regulations said poses, including in transit shipments from one foreign country to the same or another foreign country, in or through American territory, either by land or water and even though the people. liquor be not landed in this country and such liquor so transported in or drink stand across the street. The through American territory will be subject to presecution. No permit for such transportation can be issuéd."

Here is "Joker." After providing for the transports tion of non-beverage liquor, the reguations stated that "liquors properly listed as sea stores and liquors shown by the shipping papers and vessel's to a foreign country and going forward on the same vessel as that on which they arrived are excepted from the provisions of this section and will be subject only to customs regulations."

This latter provision, according to Mr. Viser, through which foreign passenger liners evaded the results of the supreme court's decision holding in transit shipments of beverage liquor illegal. Shipping board vessels would e entitled to the same treatment, he declared.

It was freely predicted tonight at prohibition headquarters, however, that an early opinion would be forthcoming Attorney-General Daugherty definitely ruling on the question of liquor on American ships.

In reply to this the church board said Mr. Ballinger received a letter, from Mr. Brundage, written at the direc tion of Chairman Lasker, saying:

"This advertisement was placed by the United States Mail Line (a private corporation which had the ships inder charter, the government, then having no connection with the same) not only without the shipping board's approval, but wholly in contravention f shipping board policies.

LEGISLATORS RESENT HARDING DICTATION

Many Senators Oppose Program Laid Out for Them in White House Instructions.

> Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel,

Washington, June 16 .- (By Constitution Leased Wire.) - Decision of republican leaders of the senate today to delay the party caucus until Monday, against first reports that the meeting would be held Saturday, is taken to mean that the administration is confronted with grave problems, which, if not properly solved, will cause a distinct break between the president and congress and will result in the G. O. P. ship going on the rocks in the coming national election. Capital observers see no other view in the move. The caucus is the result of a con ference between Senator Lodge, the majority lender, and President Harding, immediately after the former's return to Washington. Upon the outcome of the caucus will depend to a large extent whether the president is allowed to direct the legislative program of congress or whether it will be taken completely out of his hands.

At the meeting between the president and the Massachusetts senator. the chief executive is said to have strongly expressed himself against any attempt to displace the tariff with consideration of the bonus bill. In addition to this, as soon as the republican tariff bill is out of the way. he wants the senate to take up the The president said he had no doubt ship subsidy bill, which is his pet Comptroller of the Currency Crismeasure. With this, an issue of party leadership is forced between the head of the administration and the adminisration leaders in the senate. Whichever side wins out, the stamp of republican division, nothing short of a party break, will be prominent, and the results may be far reaching. Party leaders are becoming restless and fearful of the probable results. Those against the president charge that he has gone contrary to his stated policy, expressed numbers of times, of non-interference with the legislative branch of the government. This policy he repeatedly declared before election, it is asserted by his critics, who further point out that President Harding even capitalized his severe arraignment of Woodrow Wilson for "interference" during the last campaign. Lodge Backs Chief. Senator Lodge at the conference romised the president that he would arry out his wishes. At the caucus Monday he will present the views of the executive, and use his office to have them carried out. This will anomatically bring up the question of whether the fariff will be kent before the senate until it is passed. Or if, due to the slow progress being made on it, it will be laid aside in disregard of the president's wishes. And whether the bonus bill or the ship subsidy will be taken up next.

It is bonus or defeat with him, as observers see it; and when the difficulty is viewed from this angle his reported to be unmindful of presidential opposition. He will fight for his own good, and may develop the nacessary break in the old line organization to put; a democratic majority in the house. Seeing all this, republican leaders found it necessary to maneuver for time, but the outcome is yet a matter of grave speculation.

on the high seas, and gives promise of involving the subsidy bill.

Here are the developments from that side:

1. The radical drys of congress are plainly intent upon defeating the ship subsidy bill unless it carries an antiliquor amendment. This was heard in both houses. Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, told the senate "that we are not going to spend millions for subsidy just to make salcons out of ships."

2. Senator King, democrat, Utah, accused the president and Chairman Lasker of expending public funds in public grands, "already has reached the stage of a public scandal."

The administration propaganda, he said, "already has reached the stage of a public scandal."

The restoration and upkeep of the American merchant marine and whether that we are not going to spend millions for subsidy shall be given thereto, were not the things discussed about the capital today. The question of the hour was, "shall liquor be served to pastorney-General Daugherty "to enforce the prohibition law if no other." Attorney-General Daugherty previously

UNCLE SAM AND COAL.

Speaking particularly in behalf of the people of the Great Lakes region, who, he said, depend on securing their winter supply of coal by lake during the navigation season, Senator Lenroot, of Wisconsin, has suggested government seizure and operation of mines in the event of failure of the operators and miners to agree upon a strike settlement basis within thirty days.

He was joined by several other senators, in the course of debate of the coal strike situation, in expressing little confidence in the "gentlemen's agreement" program of Secretary of Commerce Hoover as a safeguard against excessive fuel prices; but regardless of that, he declared that the people of the northwest are more vitally concerned over prompt settlement of the strike than about the price sit-

"We cannot wait until September," he said-for the settlement of this strike.

"I believe that this government should serve notice within 30 days that it will take over the mines unthe strike is settled. I would not have this mean conceding the deds of the miners but would have some agency fix fair wages. There ould be just enough mines taken over to supply the needs.

believe it ought to be underood by both operators and miners that the government is not going to be helpless."

The position taken by Se Lenroot is commendable and right, te a limited extent at least.

There are relatively few thoughtful American citizens who would have the government commit itself their candidacies at the ballot box. to the policy of federal ownership of the coal mines, or to the doubtful experiment of federal operation and management except as a temporary expedient either to bridge or to avert an emergency.

But there is much truth in a recent editorial expression by The Buffalo Express, to the effect that-"Existing conditions in the coal-mining industry are intolerable from pending in the hopper. every viewpoint. The miners have a right to steady employment, which has been denied them. The consum-ers have a right to assurance of a ontinuous supply of coal at reason-The operators have a right only to reasonable returns on their stment. Some of them have received toe much and some too little. "After all, the only persons vitally erested in continuous operation cost are the consumers, who must represented by the government the miners and operators either have proved themselves indif-ferent to or incapable of dealing with the glaring faults of produc ion, it is clearly impossible for the government to refrain from taking hand in the management."

Even if the government is not stifled in "taking a hand in the gement" of the coal properties, it certainly is justified in takwhatever action may be necesto impress upon both parties this strike controversy the fact t, as Senator Lenroot expresses "It is not going to be helpless!" AIRWAY TRAVEL prediction is made, based or what has been accomplished in Europe and, to a limited extent, in this country in airplane travel, that aerial freight transportation over long distances is near. Speaking of it as a valuable asset to general transportation wherever it is in successful operation, the Dayton (O.) News says-

"They are talking now in a serious manner of air freight routes between New York and Chicago. Gen-eral Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service, is making a study of the needs of the airplane service along the lines of development of this service for practical delivery Of course, the first thing that is necessary in an enterprise of such tremendous importance is to establish airplane routes. Airplanes can-not, or at least in the course of time cannot in safety, follow any old route that their pilots choose. We nali see before long a development of the idea of airplanes, through which pilots will conduct their ma chines. The merchants' association of Chicago has become so enthused over the project of air transporta tion between that city and New York that they are willing at any time to begin operations."

The London Times says of the probable cheapness of air travel and freight transportation that "German air transport firms have come to the important decision that they will charge for airplane accommodation, despite its greater speed, no more than is charged by the railways for corresponding service."

The same paper tells of the con struction of great "metal-winged" transports for the serial exploits. tion of Russia, "each machine to carry twenty passengers, or a large And the first man that steps up to quantity of mails and merchan-us and asks: Is it hot enough for you? will get either the force of our quantity of mails and merchan-

They are going ahead with these airway projects in Germany, France and England, and when the air routes are fairly charted and the alert, intelligent "sky pilots" have become safety experts, trade and commerce will be universally benefited.

We are not "speeding up" on this line here at home, and it is well to "go slow" and "feel" our way; but greater things are coming, and when America gets fairly started on the airway transportation scheme, she, too, will work dier bonus bills pending, and in the status of legislation of major importance, the senate seems to have reached an impasse over the question of which of the measures to put through to enactment shead of the others.

President Harding is now report ed as being strongly of the opinion that the tariff bill should not be sidetracked, and a few days ago he threatened to call an extra session of congress unless the ship subsidy bill is enacted before adjournment confused with the well known petrocum distillate called benzin, which is publications. publican members of the house, as cited by Dr. Alice Hamilton, who is ell as those of the senate, who are candidates for re-election, are desperately anxious to complete enactment of the soldier bonus measure in time for them to realize the hoped-for benefit of its effect upon

The house, with nothing of importance to do and its members chafing to get home and on the job of nce-mending, is marking time, as it has been doing for many weeks, waiting for the senate.

The senate spends hours each day "debating" almost everything under the sun, including, now and then, the urgent measures that are

We are now told by the press reports that Chairman McCumber, of the senate finance committee, has announced that regardless of the outcome of a proposed republican conference called by Senator Lodge to decide to which of the major bills to give precedence, he will move early next week, "probably Monday," to lay aside the tariff bill -which has been before congress for more than a year—and proceed with the soldfer bonus measure.

And the probability is, according to the Washington dispatches, that his motion will precipitate "a bitter fight" and a prolonged and characteristically acrimonious debate of the question of which of the three bills the senate should continue to debate! In other words, the senate is nov getting ready for "a hitter fight" over the question of what to fight about!

All of this affords ample justification for the observation made by Secretary of War Weeks, in his recent address in Cleveland, Ohio, that "in any case, in the public mind the legislative branch of our government probably never has been at lower ebb than it is today."

Since the war a new solvent has been introduced in the rubber goods ber introduced in the rabber goods in anufacturing (tires, footwear, rubber hose etc.); certain processes of straw hat manufacture, the making of scaling mixtures for tin cans, as a solvent for fabrikoid and to some extent as a substitute for gasoline motor engine fuel. change coits in a benzene (benzol; tank which had been thoroughly blown out with steam. One of them was not affected at all; the other was overcome by the fumes and died."

And here is another instance which Dr. Adams cites in her report on the "Menace of Benzene (Benzol) Poisoning in American Industry:"

"Even greater precautions had been taken in an English tank car which had been emptied of benzene, washed with water, then steamed out, then left for 24 hours full of water, washed out twice, boiled for 12 hours, and finally left for 10 days with the 16-inch manhole open. Nevertheless, the man who was sent in collapsed; and although he was pulled out in time, one of his rescuers died."

A man went to the top of a still in a benzene refining plant in New Jersey to find out what was wrong. There was a bad leak, he was overcome by the fumes and fainted, and although it was only two or three minutes before two other men rescued him, he was meribund. Both of his rescuers fainted but were revived. A workma. in a Pennsylvania plant relied upon a Draeger helmet to protect him when he entered a benzene tank, but was overcome by the fumes and died. Before any man may safely enter a tank in which benzene safely enter a tank in which benze has been, some white mice should be used to test the air in the tank; if the mice survive when lowered to the bottom, then it is safe for the man to enter, not before.

Nine girls employed in a tire fac-tery using a rubber cement in which benzene was the solvent, suffered benzene was the solvent, suffered hemorrhages from many parts of the body, hemogrhages into the skin and nucous membranes, and four of them died in less than four months. Several similar cases occurred in a Maryland ean factory in which girls were employed to work with a sealing mixture lawing benzene for the solvent. It appears that this excellent and cheap solvent for rubber resins and other trade materials attacks the blood corpuscles (as do most coal tar derivatives used as medicine) and also produces grave injury to the nerve centers. Serious poisoning may occur from breathing air containing as little as one part of benzene (benzol) in 10.000 parts of air.

A strong suction should be installed at the point of origin of the fumes, when benzene is employed industrially, to carry off the fumes and protect the worker from a lethal poison. But, as Hamilton says, "how is that to be done in the varnishing of automobiles, removing shellar from the news of a church, cementing fabrikoid on tex tiles or building automobile tires?"

The Bankers' Breakdown BY FRANK H. SIMONDS.

June Dreams. Washington, June 16.—The com-plete breakdown of the negotiations of and the legal status of the German in the international bankers in Paris, covered like the Genoa episode by an adjournment to a distant future rather than without date, serves to bring home to the world once more the fact that all adjustment is necessarily contingent upon convincing France. A single fact explains the whole matter: France is the majority stock-holder; not less than 52 per cent of all the reparations claims are French, therefore the French veto to the bankwe have in the Paris affair, as

We have in the Paris affair, as in all other gatherings, two clear points of view, that of the majority interest and of the minority. Great Britain, the second largest stockholder, desires German reparations reduced Because such reduction would increase her forsuch reduction would increase her for-eign trade, particularly with Germa-ny, thus reducing her unemployment. More than that, since Germany can only pay in goods, Britain does not desire to collect any portion of her own claim. Moreover, the larger pay-ment Germany makes France in goods, the smaller sale of British goods will take place in the French market. Thus every direct and indirect interest of every direct and indirect interest of Britain is served by the reduction of the sum of German intebtedness.

the sum of German intebtedness.

As to Belgium; under the Trenty of Versaillles and other agreements Belgium is entitled to priority for her share of German reparations. She will get hers first and the more the total is reduced the larger the chance of German payment and thus Belgian profit. There you have the explanation of the Belgian support of the minority or British position. Self-interest in both cases, perfectly legitimate self-interest, to be sure, explains the attitude. the attitude.

Case of Italy. Now the case of Italy is slightly different. Italy gets 10 per cent of the reparations total against 22 for Britain and 8 for Belgium, but she has no priority claim. Therefore her claim is relatively insignificant less than half of her cant, less than half of her indebtedness to Britain, France and the United States. Her interest is in the cancellation of all debts. German and allied alike. ic bitterly Postile to France, who has the large claim; her economic inter-ests are with Germany, not with France, and German economic recov-rance, and German economic recovery will benefit her greatly.

To put the thing quite baldly, Britain and Italy are far more interested in the economic recovery of Germany than of France. There is more profit for both in such a recovery, and political feeling in part colors the Italian sentiment. Belgium gets hers first and is not asked to make a reduction, naturally sides with Britain pose. In acution she owes more than $6,000,000,000 to her allies, Britain and the United States. Aside from the charges incident to this burden, inci-dent to reconstruction, she has bal-anced her budget. nced her budget.

From the French point of view the

ness to France cannot be que German Capacity to Pay

As to German capacity to pay, the french say no one knows whether dermany can pay or not. But it is dear that the interest of the United States, Britain and Italy, the commercial and financial interest, is in reducing the German total. This is understandable, but it is not less a selfish interest. Great Britain, for example, which took the bulk of Ger man shipping, has never proposed to estore that to help German recov-restore that to help German recovery, because such restoration would stimu ate German competition with British merchant marine.

Moreover, at the moment when both Anglo-Saxon countries, the one officially, the other unofficially, alvecte a reduction of the total of German payments to France, each still holds France to the sum of Frenct indebtedness to it, an indebtedness incurred not as a result of wanton destruction edness to it, an indebtedness incurred not as a result of wanton destruction of property, but as a result of French efforts in the common cause. In this stuation the French refuse to permit a reduction of the total of indemnities, insisting that any reduction must be accompanied by a scaling down of French indebtedness to her allies.

Finally the French point out that no reduction would be accompanied by any guarantee that Germany would pay the smaller sum. They say, quite correctly, that they have already agreed to several reductions both in the sum of reparations and in the amount of annual payments; they Lave even agreed recently to a moratorium, yet despite these concession Germany has not turned over to France a single franc on account of France a single franc on account of reparations, after three years. If France can raise $10,000,000,000 within her own territory to pay the costs of reconstruction, why cannot Germany, which has no devastated area, has a large population and had a greater wealth before the war, at least make a similar effort? Mrs. Emma G. Boyd Makes Suggestions For School Sites brief suggestion in regard to the proposed girls' high school site?

While I have the deepest respect for the opinion of the Columbia clucational authorities, there seem to me to be certain palpable errors in their recommendations as they are being interpreted. In the first place, while the center of population for the present students of the girls' high school may indeed indicate Capitol avenue or Grant' Park as a suitable section for the location of a permanent building, yet for any building which may serve the city for fully half a century, it seems an utter mistake not to regard, even more closely, the building tendencies of that city. I agree fully with those opponents of the Capitol avenue-Vanida site, who maintain that it is unsuitable to ouild a white high school so close to property permanently deeded and given over to the education of negroes and so forming a necessary center for a negro population. In the same way, the comparative proximity of the Grant Park location to the immense tract owned by the government and used for the federal prison means that it will never be the center of home development of a certain kind, the kind individual taste.

There are three mixers—professorial looking in horn-rimmed glasses—and they offer the patron tiny clay pipes holding a puff of various mixtures. When one inhales the puff that satisfies they break all the pipes and fix you up a pound or so and register it under a number.

At the entrance is a gold caparison-deflunkey and he asks that you wipe your feet on the mat before entering. The floor is highly polished and is susceptible to chewing gum and other important to the creating means that it will never be the center of home development of a certain kind, the kind individual taste. will never be the center of home de-velopment of a certain kind, the kind from which high school students nor-Mally come.

Another point overlooked in the recommendations seems to me to be the fact we have only a half day school system in Atlanta. The object of an especially large tract of ground and a high school site is priof ground and a high school site is primarily for out of door recreational facilities. Now our high schools have only a half hour recess daily, and the gain from having this recess out of doors will be more than offset, in most instances, by an additional burden of 20 to 30 minutes a day in going to and coming from a site in an outlying district.

To my mind, the best site yet suggested is the Washington street one.

gested is the Washington street one, on the old Governor Brown property, half of which the city already pos-sesses. And I am quick to add that I own no foot of ground anywhere in that vicinity.

Build a city type high school of several stories on the upper half of this block. Keep the lower half free, until it is needed, and use it as an athletic field and playground. Moreover, cover the whole structure with a roof cover the whole structure with a roo garden and let this be an our-of-doo playground in bad weather. By doin this, I feel sure that tennis and bas ketball courts can both be provided and open air facilities for play be given the students; yet all, whether on basketball teams or whether tennis players, may be spared a burden of thirty to forty minutes daily in reaching some remote high school site such as has been suggested. When the city ing some remote, high scuool at has been suggested. When the city has grown so large that one city block cannot accommodate a big enough building for its girls' high school, it will logically require, not school accommodate. more space, but two or more schools, located in different parts of the city. Had we an all day school system, the problem would be quite different, and we might be justified in seeking a country location because of its addi-tional athletic opportunity.

In the same way, I deeply regret to see our boys' high school built on a miserably swampy block, totally without transportation facilities and underlaid, if I am not mistaken, by one of the main-trunk sewers of our city. We shall pay for this location, I believe, with poisoned water or poisoned air, and, some day, with a possible epidemic that It will be too late to avoid. On a bluff in Piedmont park, at its northern end, there is a magnifiits northern end, there is a magnifi-cent site for a public building, and this part of the park is practically unused and unknown to the park visitors. Here we could have an edifice crown-ing a height, where, from the time of the Greek Acropolis down, wise building a height, where, from the time of the Greek Acropolis down, wise build-ers have placed beautiful buildings. The lack of knowledge that put our county court house down a hill and our Carnegie library sliding down-wards is a sad commentary on our de-ficiency in the sense of proportion and suitable location. If this Tenth street site is irrecable acquired, why could it not be exchanged for the north end of the park I have indicated? Planted in trees and used for open air purposes only, it would do but a fraction of the harm possible to a concentrated population of several hundred students daily.

Atlanta is a great city with a temperament all its own, a temperament street site is irrevocably acquired, why

There are about 135 towns of 500 population and more in the state that are not already county seats. To have 135 new counties constituted all at once would be a glorious thing.

But why stop here? We have a good many cities divided into wards. Why not constitute each of these wards a county? Most of them will have more population than many of the new counties that have been recently constituted. This would rectify to some extent the inequalities in representation that now exist, for each of the new counties would of course have its representative in the

each of the new counties would of course have its representative in the legislature.

The advantages to the state of the new arrangement will be more manifest the more they are studied. If so many new counties as we have recently had are good, more will be better. Commemorative exercises in cele-bration of the one hundred and forty-seventh anniversary of the organiza-tion of the Quartermaster corps of the United States Army were held in At-lanta Friday night by the Atlanta chapter, simultaneously with celebra-tions in cities all over this country and wherever the quartermaster corps is

New Confidence Worker in City, Assert Police

One of the most unsual swindling schemes ever brought to the attention of Atlanta officers was being investied Friday by City Detectives A. G. ne and O. D. Evans. Both officers nkly admit that it is a baffling position and difficult of solution.

The plan, as worked here by a confidence man with numerous aliases, was to run an advertisement in a daily newspaper for a bookeeper, or assistant manager, office executive. When replies were received, he would make engagements with the various applicants ager, agent or representative of some large manufacturing concern that was about to open branch headquarters in Atlanta. He would then ask their qualifications and experience and each would be required to give a long list of references.

At this point he would emphasize the fact that a fidelity bond would be required and ask with what bank the applicant did business. Upon learning he would take his application for bond, placing the name of the bank down as reference.

Later he would call upon the applicant, informing him that he had been favorably considered and asking him to meet him at their bank. He would then tender, it is charged, a bogus cashier check on a bank in Minneapolis, Minn., in some instances, and in others on the Chase National bank in New York, for a large sum of money, which the applicant was to deposit to his own individual credit and "hold in trust" until the offices were opened, or otherwise directed by him.

When these checks were deposited,

When these checks were deposited, he would again present cashier checks of a smaller denomination and get the applicant to have his bank cash them. He would pocket the proceeds and leave town.

The party perpetrating the fraud, according to the officers, has a long string of aliases, and has operated all over the country, especially in the south and southeast. Among the names he has assumed, they say, are Washington L. Campbell, John Littleton, John Murray, John Curtis, Carl Davis and others.

In Atlanta he ran his ad on May 31 in a daily newspaper, and swindled several parties on June 7, detectives declared. The officers claim that the man's photograph is in every office of the Pinkerton detective agency, as well as in the rogues' gallery in many large cities.

BRYANT INTERESTED IN PRISON FARM PROBE

Dr. W. C. Bryant, candidate for the prison commission, was in Atlanta Friday and declined to comment upon the investigation of conditions at the state prison farm at Milledgeville.

"In view of the fact that the judges constituting the probing body have not made their formal report," said Dr. Bryant, "I would consider comment at this time discourteous to them. The report of the penitentiary committee of the last legislative session, however, showed plainly that conditions at the prison are terrible, and after the investigating judges have made their report I shall probably have something to say. Until this is done, however, I do not wish to make any statement."

A recommendation signed by two members of the Georgia prison commission that the death sentence imposed by the Dougherty superior court upon Ludy Riley, a former service or sission having considered the charge to a life term in the state prison was rendered Friday, the commissioners Davison and Patterson, while Commissioner Rainey dissented. AT WOMAN'S WINDOW BY W. L. GEORGE

There are husbands and wives who would have done better to shuffle their cards before the wedding and marry somebody else. They irritate each other and they contradict whatever the other says. It is enough that one should make a remark for the other to espouse the other side. Sometimes they are not unhappy, and indeed they jangle along like this for 50 years, proving inconsolable when one of them dies. It is curious, but it is as if they missed their sparring partner.

The wonders, therefore, whether that sort of thing is worth curing. If they were cured it may be that they would love each other no more, and these continual disputes serve to brighten their lives. I shouldn't wonder, for many human beings partake of the character of the Irish terrier, which is never happy except in a fight. But it is rather wearisome to the rest of the world which is not interested in their continued disturbances, in their argument is not interested in their continued disturbances, in their argument on whether the 10:23 train gets into St. Paul a 11.41 or 11.48; in their denunciation of each others leads when they play bridge; in the interruptions which they force into each other's stories on the plea that the story is being told the wrong way. Let them have their wrangle if they like, but they ought to realize that they are wrangling, and that they are embarrassing those who do not know them very well. Their intimate firends laugh at them, but acquaintances are impressed. The business of any couple is to raise before the world as good a front as it can. Let it not get itself misunderstood. One might sum it up by saying: If you must have a row with your husband, then let it be at home.

HAM is one of the most staple of all meat dishes. It enjoys a firmly-established popularity. It is one meat that has no substitute. When the appetite falters, and the taste becomes particularly Epicurean, there's nothing that comes to the rescue with half the relish of HAM. But please make sure that it is a "CORNFIELD" HAM—then the fullest measure of enjoyment can be anticipated. Practical Economy.

Do not be ashamed to plan closely.

Notice carefully how much staple food is used each month and see if there is a way by which the amount can be cut down.

If better prices can be obtained, buy non-perishable foods in quantities. Frequently neighbors can club together and get better prices.

By careful planning many inexpensive materials can be made attractive to serve as substitutes for meat, and the family will thank you for the change.

"Who?" Carrington leaned forward in amazement. "If you are innocent, but know something about the murder, why didn't you speak before?"

Bobby Barrett and Pitcher McLoughlin were the Atlantans responsible for the downfall of the local clan. Barrett scored one run with a single and brought McLoughlin home with the winning tally in the tenth, after the latter had whaled a triple to the right field dump.

The activities of these Atlantans, unfortunately for local bugs, at present on Kid Elberfeld's payroll, started after the Crackers had to all appearances broken their string of straight defeats. The Spiller employees had not smashed any runscoring marks from the delivery of Williams, hurling for the Travelers for the first seven innings, but Oscar Tuero, anxious to make up for the drubbing handed him in his last start by the rampaging Chickasaws, seemed to be at top form and his Cuban magic had the Kidmen completely checked.

Williams in Trouble.

Williams, on the other hand, was in trouble all the time. He lasted seven innings before the Crackers finally sent him out to confer with the locker room keeper concerning the warmth of the water in the shower room. It was the winning move. The big fellow effectively halted the charge of Atlanta's diamond representatives, although a couple of fast double plays executed by Corrigan. Inability of the Crackers to hit safely when runs were possible was a big factor leading to the sixth straight disaster. SGT. WILSON WINS MEDAL

Showing unusual skill with the service rifle in the face of a stiff breeze blowing across the range, Sergeant Flugh L. Wilson, of Atlanta, won a coveted silver medal recently on the marine corps rifle range at Parris Island, S. C.

Sergeant Wilson is on duty in the office of Colonel H. C. Reisinger, U. S. M. C., finance officer for the south S. M. C., finance officer for the southéast, where his only exercise is that of using the typewriter. The sergeant's feat was declared by expert shots as being remarkable, coupled with the fact of his absence from a target range and his few days preliminary training at Parris Island, and his ability to hit the bull's-eye in the face of a stiff wind coming in the face of a stiff wind coming from the north.

At both 200 and 300 yards rapid fire, Sergeant Wilson made his best showing with a 48 each for these two ranges. At 500 slow fire he made a 46, and after finishing the course, he was told that his total score was 295 points.

CLUB KNOWS SITUATION.

There is evidence that the same group planned to raid the New York tracks this summer, but that revelations and the acute situation in New Orleans has scared them off for the time being at least. Thus far, with the exception of two races, there have been no signs of the fine hand of the organization.

The Jockey has been criticised severely at so for its methods, especially for its settled policy of silence regarding the evidence or even the charges made against jockeys, trainers and others. But, in spite of this policy of secrecy, which at times has operated against the best interests of the turf, it is quite evident that the Jockey club knows the situation and that it is taking its own way of handling the situation.

It is difficult to discover what the Jockey club has done or is doing, but the absence of some persons from the least form the right to the left hand side of the plate. In this argument he has flatly stated that McNally saleged record of three seconds for the 90 feet is impossible.

Jockey club has done or is doing, but the absence of some persons from the track this season and the continual talk concerning the disappearance of those people, the absence from the tracks of the operators who led the attack at New Orleans last winter and were field leaders for the New York crooks who led the swindle, is in itself significant.

The disappearance of the "big money" from the tracks has been remarked frequently, and the slowing down of the operations of the gambling stables is even more marked. The fact is that the Jockey club has taken quiet but determined steps to check the big bettors, but they could not have done much but for the union formed by the layers of odds, who have held horses at ridiculeusly short prices all season, although showing a tendency to loosen up lately. The short odds may have had more to do with the disappearance of the big gamblers from the turf than the desires of the stewards and the dosires of the stewards and the dosires could have done.

Tom is, as usual, correct. The alleged record of McNally, made from a by baseball people. No man can rum 30 feet in three seconds from either hard the right hand of the plate after bunting a ball.

The nearest I ever saw it done was a faster man than McNally, and we never could catch his time at less than three and a half seconds. The left-hander has an advantage in bunting a hall pitched close to him so that he half turns while bunting, but on a ball on the out corner, where he is compelled to make the complete half-turn after bunting. The right-hander can bunt and reach first quicker.

But wagering, as conducted at New Orleans last winter, was not gambling; it was plain, downright thievery of the worst sort—crooked races, dictated by crooked gamblers. It was one of the best organized systems of plain swindling ever devised. The results of races were dictated in advance by a powerful group operating from New York before which track owners, horse owners and other powers, even the political powers of New Orleans, were helpless.

Many otherwise honest men were placed in the position of helplessness before the power of this organized group possessing enough money to manipulate racing, to handle jockeys and trainers.

the idea of individual contest enters more into them. In boxing the fact is noticeable that if one man appears calm or almost contemptuous the other is most liable to lose his head and start boxing wildly. Even in baseball the air of confidence in ability to win, or holding an opponent cheap, almost always makes the opposing team play below its real ability.

To desire to win is all right, but the moment one becomes overdesirous the result is what in golf is called "pressing"—and of all the elements that go to make for bad golf, pressing is the worst.

Tom is, as usual, correct. The alleged record of McNally, made from a bunt, never has been taken seriously by baseball people. No man can ran 90 feet in three seconds from either the right or the left hand of the plate after bunting a ball.

EARLY DECLINES IN COTTON FOLLOWED BY RALLIES

Rains in Southwest Cause Prices to Soar To Higher Quotations

New York, June 16.—Early declines were followed by rallies in the cotton market today owing to reports of rains in the southwest and bullish week-end statistics. October contracts sold up from 21.35 to 21.96 and closed at 21.85 compared with 21.51 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at a net advance of 22 to 34 points.

The market opened at a decline of 1 point to an advance of 1 point which was considered a very poor response to relatively firm Liverpool cables. Liverpool bought some cotton here but there was scat-tered southern selling as well as local realizing on liquidation on generally fair weather on north and active months sold about 14 to 18 points net lower during the middle of the morning with July touching 21.50 and December 21.14. Offerings became light around these figures, while a report from the weather bureau said that a distubance of moderate intensity had passed inland from the gulf just south of the Rio Grande.

This helped to steady the market and a covering movement started during the early afternoon because of comparatively small offerings around the ring and reports that it was raining at San Antonio and San Benito, in extreme southwest Texas. Contracts appeared to be scarce following earlier week liquidation and the market sold up to 21.98 for July and 21.80 for December in the late trading, or 48 to 66 points above the low level of the morning, and 32 to 48 points net higher.

The close was a few points off from the best under realizing. Spinners' takings for the week were placed at 266,077 bales by the New York cotton exchange, compared with 149,171 for the same week last year, and there was a decrease of 147,326 bales in the world's visible supply of American. Liverpool reported a more active business in Manchester and spinners' calling in the English market. Exports today 47,179, making 5,499,731 so far this season. Port receipts 10,571; U. S. port Offerings became lighter below the 21 1-2 cent mark, however, and there was moderate rallies on covering, with today's market showing a tendency to steady owing to builish week-end statistics, uncertainty as to weather prospects in the extreme southwest and reports that boil weevils were numerous in nearly all parts of the south. The rains reported on Monday were confined almost entirely to coast sections of today's, while weather conditions elsewhere in the belt were considered generally favorable and much of the selling was undoubtedly based upon the hope that end-June figures would show an improvement in the condition of the crop.

The mid-month reports issued indicated comparatively little change for the first half of the period, one of the mid-month reports issued indicated comparatively little change for the first half of the period, one of the glacing the condition at from 67 to 68, while the other made the condition 69.2 and the indicated yield 10, 350,000 bales compared with an end-May indication of 10,236,000. Liverpool made a comparatively quiet showing during the earlier part of the week and reported a less active business in Manchester but today's cable advices were more favorable and said that spinners had been calling cotton in the English market. There has been if the command on conditions in the market for cotton goods, but the opinion is expressed by local traders that domestic mill consumption is increasing somewhat.

HIGHER LEVELS IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, June 16 .- Early de clines in the cotton market today did not persist as statistics were favorable and that weather disturbance in the gulf yesterday struck inland over south Texas during the day, bringing a great deal of rain with ft, the news of which threw the market into an uproar of buying in the late session. This buying forced prices 38 to 45 points higher than the close of yesterday; last prices were at net gains of 32 to 37 points. July sold as high as 22.06 and closed at 22.00. Better cables than due caused a bet-

This was the lowest of the day as sellers were cautious because of spother storm warning for July off to 21.47. This was the lowest of the day as sellers were cautious because of another storm warning for the Texas coast. The market commenced to recover but did not show decided strength until the receipt of cablegram from Liverpool stating that British board of trade returns for May placed exports of yarns from England at 14,200,000 pounds against 8,500,000 during May of last year and exports of coth at 443,000,000 yards against 146,00,000.

Further strength was attained following the posting of the weekly statistics placing mill takings at 228,000 bales against 130,000 bales this week last year, while storm news carried the market to its highest.

New Low Levels for Week

Constitution's New York Financial Correspondent.

New York, June 16.—A sharp break occurred in the stock market during the first hour carrying Crueible, Baldwin, American Sugar, Royal Dutch, Mercantile Marine, preferred; Bethlehem B, Steel common and other shares to new low records for the week. In the third hour there was some recovery especially in the steel shares on rumors that some of the plants of the steel corporation were now running 100 per cent of capacity. Another decline started, however, and for the rest of the day the market was irregular.

Thirty-day loans were made at 3 3-4 with 60 and 90-day money quoted at 4 to 4 1-4 with the supply limited. The banks here are holding back en time money and will continue to do so until interest rates on deposits have been lowered.

In steel quarters in was stated today that the merger of the Republic, Midvale and Inland into the new North American Steel company will take place in July immediately after the federal trade commission has completed its investigation unless something unforeseen occurs. Until that time nothing definite will be done, it was said, to make possible resumption of "when, as, and if" trading on the curb.

Optimistic Outlook. Your correspondent had a talk today with one of the biggest cattle men in with one of the biggest cattle men in the west. He says that owing to easier money all of the cattle raisers who were able to hold on will be able to get out whole. Money in the west usually the tightest of the year at this time is easy, he says, and will be easier around the middle of next month when wheat begins to move to market.

month when wheat begins to move to market.

It was only a few months ago that the cattle inustry was one of the sickest. The farm implement trade is still sick but is picking up according to one of our large bankers here in close touch with farming sections of the west and southwest. A letter just received from one of the big farm implement manufacturers reports that at a demonstration just held before a large number of invited farmers, more tractors were sold in two days than in the previous ninety days. This banker reports that Kansas this year will harvest 100,000,000 bushels of wheat and get for it $1 a bushed at primary points.

Back to Normal.

If these predictions materialize Kansas, it was stated, would be back to normal. As a result of easier money, improvement in farm product prices, recovery in the cattle industry and the hopes of good crops there is much better feeling it was stated throughout the content of the cattle industry and the hopes of good crops there is much better feeling it was stated throughout the

In conference at Cincinnati the American Federation of Labor indorses the nationwide coal strike which has kept 500,000 men out of work since April and has greatly increased the cost of fuel to industry as a whole. Approval was also given to the threatened strike of over 1,000,000 railway employees on July 1. The miners and the railway workers alike are opposed to having their high wartime wages reduced even to a level still higher than is paid in other industries.

Continued ease of call money rates was a negative influence, being based on the light inquiry. NEW TRIAL REFUSED TO TROLLEY COMPANY

A mistake in listing the left arm in the damage suit of Harry Jenkins against the Georgia Railway and Power company, when as a matter of fact it was the right arm that was injured in the accident for which Jenkins had been awarded $1,000 previously in Fulton superior court, is insufficient reason and does not constitute grounds for a new hearing of the case, the Georgia court of appeals ruled Friday in affirming the lower court.

Jenkins claimed to have suffered injuries November 11, 1920, when he was struck by a street car as he was attempting to crank his automobile which was stalled on the tracks on Gaskill street. The petition for damages alleged that his left arm, shoulder and wrist, was injured. He was awarded damages in $1,000 at the October term of superior court last year.

When the case was called before Judge Ellis, an amendment to the original petition was offered, alleging that it was the right arm and shouder of the petitioner that was injured in stead of the left arm. Attorneys representing the power company, claimed that the amendment came as a surprise and they were unprepared to proceed with the case. Judge Ellis overruled the objection and this was the principal ground for asking a reversal of the lower court.

You may see and meet the tyranny, which strikes in the open from a throne, or public office. But the masked tyranny, which threatens and strikes in the dark, claiming thereby to be defending a religion, whose founder. Jesus Christ, declared, "I spoke openly to the world—in secret have I said nothing"—this secret tyranny would destroy Christianity, if that were possible, and it would take from us our hard-won liberty, both religious and civil.

Jerusalem and her temple were doomed, when that secret band, the Sicarii, who killed in secret at the beck of those higher up, appeared and flourished. The mob, which dictated to Pilate, death for Jesus and release for murderer Barabbas, was led and driven by these same "higher ups" in the name of religion and patriotism.

Christ Above Beard. You may see and meet the tyranny,

Christ Above-Board. When Jesus defied them with the words, "In secret have I said noth-ing," the whole world seemed against Him. If ever there were excuse for secrecy, it was then. But He to whom we owe our lives, liberty and re-ligion, refused to hide His face, words or acts, although He stood alone that day long ago. In Georgia today, His Protestant followers number more than 1,192,674 people, while there are only 19,400 and odd of the Roman Catholic faith. Yet the spectacle is before us of a man in public office in Georgia's capital boasting of standing beside a hidden altar and taking a secret oath to vote helpless women out of their positions as teachers in our public schools have the standard and calculate the st schools because these women worship our God in their own church. And members of our board of education, members of our board of education, who refused to vote with this man, have been threatened with death by anonymous letters and mysterious voices over the telephone.

In this state, politically, the Roman Catholics are powerless. Yet these methods, the mask and secrecy are being used to attack them and all who dare to defend them in their constitutional rights. in this state, the most evil of all ty-rants, religious intolerance and hate? Our differences with the Roman Catholic church are many. But with the members of that church we have constitutional rights. How do you account for it? Easily.

The Bully's Method.

History and experience prove that religious prejudice is the easiest of all passions to arouse, and that, oree aroused, it is the blindest. Therefore, to the demagogue, the Roman Catholic church being weak in Georgia, and having few friends in this state, is a shining mark for attack. Like the school bully, who picks the weakest boy to beat, to impress the gang with his great courage, the demagogue in our midst picks women school teachers, members of this church, to jump on for their religion, counting upon the ignorance of the many to permit him to impress them with his wonderful daring in attacking this supposedly mighty riant, the Roman Catholic church. He thinks there can be no come-back.

BY JEROME JONES.

Cincinnati, O., June 16.— (Special.)
Today's feature of the A. F. of L. convention was the address of Commander McNider, of the American Legion. If anyone harbors the notion that the American Federation of Labor and the American Legion do not understand each other or have a doubt that the two bodies are not in harmonious relation, both notion and doubt would have been dissipated had they witnessed the great ovation by the delegates when Grand Commander McNider, of the American Legion, was presented to the convention. by President Gompers.

Only on two other occasions did the delegates manifest their welcome in so riofous a manner, first when President Gompers opened the convention and second when Senator La Follette addressed the convention.

The ovation tendered Grand Commander McNider was very pronounced; pandemonium was outclassed, men and women cheered and waved papers, hankershiefs and fans, and on the conclusion of Commander McNider's address the delegates were waved papers, hankershiels and lans, and on the conclusion of Commander McNider's address the delegates were no less demonstrative.

Commander McNider paid a glowing tribute to the American Federation of Labor for the great service rendered the soldier during the war and for its devotion to the ex-service

Such avowals and such oaths cannot defeat the just charge that these organizations are conspiracies against law and government."

Judge Clayton said he would cite the case of "an eminent citizen of Alabama" who, he said, joined the klan and later discovered that a "regular docket" was maintained containing cases against citizens of the state.
